One-Act Plays Judged Best Ever

For the second year in succession, the three one-act plays have been made a part of the annual Gould Winter Carnival activities, establishing what may well be a custom. They were held Saturday night this year, at 8 o'clock in the William Bingham Gymnasium.

The first of the plays was "Miss Personality Plus," written by Florence Swope. In the story about a small town girl, played by Betty Bachus, and her summer romance with a famous orchestra leader, played by Larry Clement, Martha Waterhouse and Harlan Stearns were very natural in their roles of bickering middle-aged husband and wife. As the old-maid town gossip, Laura Belle Bennett was very good. Others in the cast who did a fine job were Mary Plumer as Miss Personality Plus, and Tim Terry.

The second play, a comedy also, was "Quiet Please," written by Howard Buermann. The play was set in the bachelor quarters of two feuding Oxford county natives, played very humorously by Russell Cram and Stanley Cole. The supporting cast who were Mark Rines, Jackie Macfarlane, Janet Palmer, and Janice Bowman also did a fine job.

The third and last play, very different from the others, was a tragedy, "Four Hundred Nights" written by Jack Stuard Knapp. The scene was set in a courtroom where William Moreland was being tried for the murder of his leading lady. As William Moreland, James Stafford did a very fine piece of acting.

The producing staff was as follows: Lee Nary was stage manager; Leland Brown was in charge of properties; the prompter was Nancy Barnard; make-up was under the direction of Miss Vose, Mrs. Thompson, and Mr. Roderick; the plays were ably directed by Mr. Thompson.

During the intermissions between each play, the Gould Academy orchestra, under the direction of Miss Ann Griggs, played several numbers which were "Two Excerpts" from the 6th Symphony of Tschalkowsky, "Dance of the Hours" by La Gioconda, and "Caconne" by Auguste Durand.

STUDENT COUNCIL NEWS

Recently the Student Council has accepted and undertaken more new duties and has begun to carry out more completely the duties originally given it.

By a majority vote the Council chose to make desk inspections, the first of which occurred Friday, Jan. 31. These inspections by Council members will be done frequently and are another indication of the growing influence of this organization.

The problem of assemblies has been tackled by the Council and various plans have been offered. The assembly program of records from Gould's Carnegie Library will probably continue, for few realize or hear the wealth of music that is in this library of albums. Another type of program, under the chairmanship of Janice Bowman and Jimmy Brown, is also being arranged and will appear in the near future.

The Student Council is also active in other ways. Tickets are sold at games by members; its members also vote on letters for athletics. The Council also sponsored the successful Christmas Ball. Thus in these ways the Student Council is attempting to make its influence felt and its dependability proved even more as the year progresses.

NEW ENGLAND MUSIC FESTIVAL

A group of seven students from Gould will go to Brattleboro, Vt. for the week end of March twentieth to twenty second to attend the annual New England Music Festival.

Students from schools all over New England will be at the festival to participate in the band, orchestra, or voice groups. The students chosen from Gould are Myra Stickney, representing the orchestra, Donald Lord, representing the band and Geraldine Linnell, Nancy Barnard, Barbara Galbraith, Eugene Van and Roy Lurvey representing the Glee Clubs.

The students from Gould who will go to Vermont this spring have already received their music, which they must learn by the nineteenth of March, when they leave for the festival.

The students expect to have a good time socially even though they must spend a good deal of their time at rehearsals. There will be a semi-formal dance Thursday night.

WHITTEMORE AND LOWE THIRD IN CONCERT SERIES

Gould students attended the third concert in the Community Concert Series on Friday evening, January 24, 1947. The brilliant young duo-pianists, Arthur Whittemore and Jack Lowe, gave a recital of their own transcription, ranging from the classic airs of Bach and Handel to modern dance melodies. The Coronation Scene from "Boris Godounov" by Modeste Moussorgsky, "Clair de Lune" by Debussy, and "Bolero" by Maurice Ravel seemed to be favorites of the audience. The novel "Guaracha," a South American drinking song composed by Morton Gould and set to a boogie-woogie beat by Whittemore and Lowe, brought smiles from the performers as well as from the audience.

Whittemore and Lowe met as students at the Eastman School of Music, New York, and one summer, took a vacation together in Puerto Rico. There a two piano recital had been arranged by accident for them, although they had never played together before. However, a program was quickly prepared, and the success of this debut launched Whittemore and Lowe on their career as a piano team.

Shortly after the war began, Whittemore and Lowe enlisted in the United States Navy. They became favorite service entertainers and were the first Navy members to entertain officially in the Pacific. As stars of the all-Navy musical, "Drop the Hook," they established a concert record that may stand for all time, having played close to seven hundred and fifty performances before nearly a million service men and women.

THE MIKADO

The Gould Academy musical clubs will present "The Mikado," a Japanese comic-opera in two acts, by Gilbert and Sullivan, on Friday evening, March 14. Many of the well-known Gilbert and Sullivan songs will be sung to the accompaniment of an orchestra which will be under the direction of Miss Collins.

Costumes are being rented from the Tracy Music Library in Boston, and Miss Vose is the wardrobe mistress. Mr. Roderick will supervise the make-up of the caste.

The main characters have been chosen as follows:

The Mikado of Japan
Richard Bayles
Nanki-Poo, son of the Mikado, disguised as a wandering minstrel
Robert Joy
Ko-Ko, Lord High Executioner of Tittipu
David Farrington
Pooh-Bah, Lord High Executioner of Everything Else
Charles Boutot
Pish-Tush, a Noble Lord
Richard Ireland
Yum-Yum, Pitti-Sing, Peep-Bo, sisters, wards of Nanki-Poo
Myra Stickney, Nancy Barnard
Eleanor Gurney
Katisha, an elderly lady in love with Nanki-Poo
Barbara Galbraith

The chorus will be taken from the Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs. Miss Griggs has already been rehearsing, with those having special parts, and the chorus will start rehearsing soon.

The Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, "Pirates of Penzance" was put on two years ago by the Gould Glee Clubs, and it was enjoyed both by the audience and those participating.

The annual carnival ball was held in the William Bingham Gymnasium, Friday, January 7 at 8 o'clock. The gymnasium was well decorated with blue, white and black streamers and balloons. Kenny Goodwin's orchestra played.

The procession of the queen and attendants began with two ski team members holding streamers the length of the gym. While the traditional march was played, the ski team members took their positions. The first two attendants, Irene Wight and Sally Stowell, then marched in. Next, as a hush descended upon the gym, came the queen, Betsy Norton, with her train, Bobby Galbraith, Janice Bowman, and Betsy Grandin. Lastly, little Sarah Hawthorne came bearing the crown. Mr. Ireland crowned the queen, who in turn knighted each member of the ski team, wishing them good luck in the events for Saturday. The grand march then began, led by Betsy Norton and Richard Ireland.

The program for the rest of the evening followed the usual proceedings, with such novelty dances as an elimination dance and a spotlight dance.

The committees for this dance carried out their tasks well under the general supervision of Janice Bowman, president of the Outing Club, which sponsored the dance. The business committee was headed by Gertrude Penner, the coronation and dance committee by Sally Adams. Barbara Crockett was in charge of the decorations, and Dick Day and Jack Libby in charge of refreshments.

The ball was made even more of a success by the fact that the ski team would be able to compete with other schools, due to the snow that fell on Friday.

Until the moment the queen came in the door, no one knew who she was to be. The petitions had been in circulation during the week, and on Thursday the whole school voted for one of the six candidates. The losers automatically became attendants.

The entire ball was sponsored by the Outing Club. The committees were chosen from among the members. A great deal of credit for the success of this affair goes to the president, Janice Bowman.

GIRLS GET NEW COUNCIL

The new constitution for the Girls' Dormitory Council adopted by popular vote of the entire dormitory, is giving Gould's boarding department its first real taste of student government. The constitution provides for election of council members, a secretary, and dormitory head. It also states the responsibilities of the Council and provides for Council meetings. Questions concerning dormitory activities come to the attention of the Dormitory Council and the Teachers' Advisory Council. Decisions of this group are handed to Mr. Ireland for ap-

Commencement Isn't The End

Every once in a while, especially at the time of a formal dance, Carnival week end, or at Commencement, a few different faces can be seen on campus. To most of us who have been at Gould two years or more, at least some of them are familiar; to others they are completely strange, but it can be seen almost at a glance that they are or were from Gould. A cheery "Hi there!", a friendly handshake of a teacher, easily distinguishes them from total strangers. More than anything, though, they seem to be glad to be back. And glad we are to have them!

Shameful as it may seem, there are more than a few Gould students who have been heard to say, "Will I be glad to get out of here!" and various like remarks. Without a doubt, many of the alumni who have already returned said the same thing. It seems people must always have something to grumble about, and the most convenient thing is our school.

The fact remains, however, that they are coming back! Those of us who are planning to graduate in June are beginning to feel just a bit reluctant to leave "dear old Gould" and all that it has meant to us from anywhere from one to four years. We have heard from more than one "homesick" alumnus who actually wishes he were back! Maybe we should try to profit by their experience and appreciate, not belittle, what we now have.

Looking at them objectively, it seems that they, as unofficial representatives of Gould as well as themselves, seem to be indeed holding their own in various colleges about the country and in the business world. Reports from colleges and letters from alumni in college seem to state in general that marks are at least average and often above. One former Gouldite is finishing her studies in Europe as an exchange student; another has been appointed to the college board of Mademoiselle; still another is president of the Student Council at her respective college. Others are forging their way ahead in the fields of medicine, law, journalism and many others.

We're proud of you, alumni, and we want you to know it! We only hope that we'll be able to live up to the high standards you've set, and we still consider you part of us even though you may not be here. Keep coming back—we're as glad to see you as we hope you are glad to see us!

A Graduate Of Gould

BILL CHAPMAN

Bill Chapman, who was graduated from Gould in 1924, furthered his education by going to Hebron Academy for one year and then studying at the University of Maine for two years.

Upon completion of this course, he returned to Bethel and in 1928 he married the former Ruth Hastings. They now have two children, Mary Jane and Betsy.

He started farming at the time of his marriage by buying registered beef shorthorn cattle. He has gradually built up his herd until he now has thirty head of the finest stock in this vicinity. This fact he proves each fall by showing them at the leading fairs of Maine and New Hampshire. There he meets very stiff competition but usually emerges with several blue ribbons. His other farming activities include the raising of from ten to fifteen acres of potatoes and sweet corn each year.

He is now secretary of Lions Club, Master of the Masons, and a member of the Bethel Chamber of Commerce. His interest in agricultural development made him a prominent member of the executive committee of the Oxford County Farm Bureau. Among Bill's hobbies is a love for bowling; he is a member of the Bethel bowling team, and averages in the high nineties.

His marked success in the past indicates that he is capable of helping to manage agricultural development, and his keen interest in these affairs show that he is determined to promote and extend the agricultural activities of Maine.

Opinions Appreciated

"Why don't we have very much school spirit, and what can we do about it?" was the question of the week. The answers ranged from "Serve oaks in study hall, and we'll appreciate Gould more" to "Give us more freedom around here!"

Neva Mundt suggested that having more pep rallies might help.

Mike Brown snickered and said "Bounce all the teachers." Now there's an idea!

Ann Cummings complained that there was too much friction (Ah, Physics) between town and dorm, and that that led to less school spirit.

Stanley Cole also thinks more town and dorm activities should be combined. "They don't cooperate," he sighed.

Gloria Cutting wants more cheering at the games but didn't know how to get more out of that cheering section.

Gainer McGorrell had an answer to that problem. She said to build fires under the boys.

Jessie Wermenchuk suggested that maybe the reason for no school spirit was that what the town kids are interested in the dorm kids aren't and vice versa. The town and dorm just separate naturally.

Buddy Foster thinks everyone is conceited and too lazy to go to games.

Connie Beeken thought there WAS school spirit, and Sally Adams admitted that it had improved, although the boys still won't cheer.

Carol Swan wants more band playing at the games.

John Blackadar says the cheers aren't any good. He wants peppler, faster ones.

Ted Logan doesn't like the cheers either. He claims that if the cheers were good the boys would feel more like following them.

Jerry Linnell, BLUE AND GOLD's hysterical typist, suggested soft drinks and soft music in study hall. She added that more social activities would build up school spirit.

Jane Kanaly said that if the games were more widely advertised, and more pep rallies were held, more people would come. Sometimes people don't know a game was played until the morning after.

Jim Hickox claims he doesn't have time for games because he had too much studying to do.

That, they say, is why we don't have school spirit. Now how about doing something about it?

POPULAR SKI TRIPS

There have been three ski trips sponsored by the Outing Club this year. The first trip was taken January 11. The Gould Academy school bus was filled to capacity with ski team members and recreational skiers. The first half of the day was spent at Jackson, N. H., the ski team climbing the Wildcat trail, and the rest skiing on the practice slope. In the afternoon everyone went up to the ski tow in Pinkham Notch.

The next trip was also to Pinkham Notch, on January 25. The same schedule was followed. The skiing was rather wet in comparison with the first trip, when there was powder snow.

The third trip was to Bridgton, Maine, February 1. As well as skiing for the recreational skiers at the tow, there was competition for the ski team. Gould won, Dick Ireland taking first place in the two events.

Sandwiches and cake were prepared by girls of the Outing Club for the skiers' lunches. The trips were free to all members of the Outing Club.

OXFORD PLAY DAYTO BE HELD SATURDAY

Oxford County is sponsoring a Girls' Play Day on February 15 in Norway, Maine. The contestants from each school participating next Saturday are limited to only ten girls. The girls were chosen not only for their ability but for their interest in sports and their good sportsman ship. The following are the ones who are planning to attend this meeting: Barbara Galbraith, Irene Wight, Frances Vinton, Janice Bowman, Isabel Bennett, Amy Penner, Betsy Grandin, Jackie Macfarlane, Betsy Norton and Myra Stickney.

The indoor sports in which these girls will be able to participate will be volleyball and basketball. More numerous are the outdoor activities which are skating, skiing, snowshoeing, tobogganing. To make the day complete, there is going to be a treasure hunt.

Gould will not compete with other schools but rather the Gould representatives will be separated into various opposing teams, playing with those from other schools. Thus, there is no recognition as to what school is represented.

Such a play day offers the participants the opportunity to meet girls from other schools. Also, the girls here have no chance to compete with other schools in sports, and although this is of a different nature, it will prove interesting to compare Gould with other schools.

BETSY NORTONDANCE CLUB

The Dance Club, an organization open to girls from the tenth to the twelfth grades, has picked its new members. The Club is smaller than in previous years but is a more select group. This year there are only six new members, although about fifty girls tried out. They are Nancy Crane, Jeanne Crocker, Barbara Crockett, Adelle Kimball, Eleanor Gurney and Barbara Pretty.

The club teaches the girls poise and gracefulness. Each spring, in the Girls' Gym Exhibition, the Club interprets music in the form of dance. The work of the Club is enjoyed equally well by the members and by the audience.

The Carnival Queen of 1947, Betsy Norton, was crowned in the William Bingham Gymnasium at the annual Carnival Ball, February seventh. The first suspense was broken when the Queen and her attendants, Sally Stowell, Irene Wight, Betsy Grandin, Barbara Galbraith, and Janice Bowman, began their stately march to the throne through the honor guard of ski team members. After receiving the crown from cute, red-headed Sarah Hawthorne, Mr Ireland crowned the Queen, wishing her a successful reign. After knighting the ski team and wishing them luck, she led the grand march with the ski team captain, Richard Ireland.

Betsy, one of our cheerleaders, was born in Portland, Maine, July 28, 1929. She attended Wiscasset High her freshman year, coming to Gould in her sophomore year. She was elected Class Treasurer that year and joined the Camera Club. On the Herald Staff she helps in the advertising.

A ski enthusiast, she is the secretary-treasurer of the Outing Club and the Ski manager of the A. A. Council.

Betsy's near-future plans are settled, for she has already been admitted to Endicott Junior College, in Beverly, Massachusetts. There she has made tentative plans to study for a career in journalism or welfare work.

CONGRATS ALUMNI

Probably no one criteria is more influential in establishing the worth of a school than the record of its alumni during their first year in college. I am sure that all alumni are aware of this fact and are anxious to add prestige to themselves and their school by making as good a record as possible. They are also very anxious that the undergraduate appreciate the value of a solid foundation in all subjects which lead to advanced study and cultural enjoyment.

The record of Gould's 13 freshmen representatives at the University of Maine is quite pleasing to the headmaster and faculty and I know you undergrads also get quite a kick out of their success. Congratulations!

BETHEL BEDLAM

Now there has long been some question among the basketball boys as to the relative merits of Gorham and Old Orchard. However, lately the Gorham champions have come out with some strong arguments. At least according to Teddy Young, Paul Wight and Jimmy Brown, who recently explored the mysteries of eastern New Hampshire. Our young Romeos had a lively and memorable Friday night that easily stretched to 4:15 on Saturday morning. Reports have leaked out that this may be a regular rendezvous in the future. How about it, Jimmy? Perhaps with the help of some Senior girl a regular bus could be run up every week end.

Suppose they started charging rent at "The Casbah"? Would that decrease the patronage of those select cliques that frequent the joint day and night? We refer of course to the pride and joy (no reflection) of Bethel who don their best bib and tucker every Sunday nite to appear dutifully at the Cyp Club. Speaking of the Cyp Club, those trips by bus to the games are a swell idea. With a bump, a blister, and a "Keep that flash light out of this corner!" the riot is on. There are always eager individuals experimenting on the ways and means of murdering songs. Of course, the little ones from across the way must have their rough and tumble, insisting on making their presence known to all and sundry. But the tumult and the shouting dies by the time Bethel looms into sight again, and the silence is defiled only by interesting cat-calls echoing through the bus.

If you think Jack Libby's hat is macabre, take a good gander at that outrage Dave Bennett sometimes sports — takes the place of "Zeke" we suspect. Poor little Zeke, but glasses cost more than pipes, Dave. And while on the subject of pipes have you seen those monstrous fugitives from a council fire that Jerry Davis and Raymond York carry during their lighter moments.

The Saturday dances at West Bethel are getting to be a "Must" on any social card. Sponsored by the West Bethel Grange and Mike Brown on alternate week ends, they are attended by anyone and everyone. Mike, Roy Lurvey and Donald Lord help with the music when Mike and Roy aren't inspecting the contents of the cars that literally throng the road in front of the dance hall. Ginny Potter and Donny Walker seem to prefer the square dances, but advise amateurs to proceed with caution.

Among the Freshman: Miss Stalwood had better station a guard around the gym for other purposes than to protect open lockers. The freshman had a secret session there one day, and succeeded in upsetting almost everything. They also are making skirts in Home Economics and are very proud of their progress. Doris Wermenchuck is a whiz according to one discouraged struggler, but Laurabelle Bennett and Liddell Maxim aren't far behind.

GEHRING GOSSIP

It seems that the girls on third hall are running short of pin money and have hit upon a new way to make themselves some. Once a month, in the hall, on the teachers' night out, they open up their bowling alley. It is hard to figure out where the money is coming from because anyone is invited as long as they have a good pair of lungs and a capacity for making more noise than the girl before them. Maybe there is something to it though. In future years when they are sitting pretty with a huge alley of their own, they can look back and think, "If it wasn't for good old third hall back in the Girls' Dorm at Gould, I never would be here today." Well, Gould gave someone a start in life anyway!

Bethel is having another addition to the three churches she already has. It is a small, but growing one, with a very few members in its congregation, and the meetings are held in the only convenient place, an abandoned closet. The three members would be very grateful though, if some kind soul would donate a light—no, better make it three lights—just in case they decide to become missionaries and move to other closets! And somehow, for no reason at all, except for maybe a touch of Spring Fever which always goes to one's head—or maybe because the snow was melting it suggested swimming—a number of girls, clad in anything but winter clothes, were found posing on top of a snow bank the other day. A number of interested spectators, both from the road and from the dorm windows, watched them. We need say no more, and Mr. Vachon, "taisez-vous, s'il vous plait!"

And now, after almost two months of winter, we again look forward to Spring. Oh yes, we all love the hills and trees covered with white blankets, but the more blankets they are covered with, the more we must cover ourselves with, and as we plow our way through six layers we think longingly of green grass and budding flowers. And just as it begins to have a faint smell of Spring, Old Man Winter does:

a double take, reverses his plans and blesses us with snow. He chuckles gleefully as he watches us struggle through it, aided and abetted by icy winter winds. It's not that we don't like winter—real winter, that is—but it is rather trying to be on the falling end of an experiment—namely, to see if thaws and freezes will mix. We know only too well that they don't! Please, even just a single blade of grass—green grass—as a consolation to our poor snow bound souls!

The prize remark of the year was made to Mr. Scott by his waiter the other night. The main course was chop-suey, very gooeey, and as Mr. Scott was helping himself to another portion, spoon in mid-air, Guy came up to ask him if he was finished with the main course. Mr. Scott looked as surprised as he would if he had heard Mr. Clunie had shot a deer, when Guy said, "Mr. Scott, are you through with the goo?"

Notice! Anne Libby of room 11 was in bed on time February fifth! Mrs. Goggin, with a look of complete amazement on her face, was heard to gasp, the next morning, "She made it!"

HOLDEN HORRORS.

There's an air about Holden Hall peculiar to formal this week. Those wide, satisfied grins after the Tuesday night dance certainly must mean something! Last Thursday the boys from the colleges invaded in full storm. Red Norwood, Jack Marshall, Dave Burnell, and Sherm Cole have been circulating among their numerous friends. Before the game Friday afternoon some of the girls came over and Old Home Week was revived.

Last Monday night Monte Moore, Director of Athletics at Bates, brought up movies of the Bates-Toledo game in the Glass Bowl. We saw some real football in those reels. The pictures were not in sound, and Mr. Moore commented from time to time. At the conclusion of the program some of the fellows discussed Bates with Mr. Moore and Mr. Lindholm, registrar at Bates.

Our dorm party is scheduled for March first. The boys have got quite a program cooked up for the occasion. Also, there is an air of mystery about some of the plans, so the party should prove surprising as well as entertaining.

There's an epidemic of portrait-taking going on at the darkroom. After a recent demonstration meeting of the Camera Club the boys took over the cameras. In the course of a few days everyone had taken everybody else's picture and even girls were imported from across the road. Some of the results were pathetic, but for the most part, they would pass for a resemblance of a portrait. Anyway, the shutterbugs have had a lot of fun and have had a little experience in one of the most enjoyable parts of photography.

What are those groans coming from Room 16? If you didn't know, you'd think nothing short of a murder had been committed. Well, it is only a few of the boys trying to stress the superiority of their home towns.

WINTER LAMENT

Here is another product of talent hidden among the members of the student body. This original poem was composed by a member of the junior class.

I walked along a winter road alone,
My fingers tingling and my face all stiff,
My feet not feeling anything but cold
Penetrating through my heavy coat.
The snow was lovely in the fading light of day;
The new made shadows falling blue
Across the vales and hummocks, by the trees,
And in the creaking car tracks of the road;
But all so cold! This icy beauty here
Was only in our view because of chance.
It had not warmth or love; companionship
Was unknown to this lovely winter waste.
It would as soon, or rather, take the life
Of birds, and little animals, and men
As save a single soul from threatening wrong.
The lacy, lovely landscape just allowed
The "oh"ings and the "ah"ings of mere men
Because they didn't do her any harm;
But only tolerate them; this she did
Because she hadn't any other choice.
But would she shield a mortal from his pain,
Or heal a tired spirit, broken soul,
Or rest a weary body? Not unless
That weary body wanted certain death.
But in the lovely, budding, virgin spring
And summer, men can find a perfect life.

The beauty and the splendor of this scene
When Lady Summer opens wide her arms—
Her bountiful arms, and scatters leaves and flowers,
Gurgling brook, and tiny blades of green—
Is more than loveliness, in its own self;
And in the balmy breezes that float by,
Stirring the things that grow, you'll find all life.
Look up—you'll find the flutterings of birds,
The buzz of bees, the hum of hummingbirds,
The soft, the gauzy, tender butterfly,
And high, the circling hawk with gliding wings.
Look down—you'll see the tinier mammals there,
The field mice, squeaking in pretended fright,
The rabbits' wiggling noses, twitching ears,
The tiny toads, the insects, and them all.
All life rejoices in this time of dreams—
When things can grow, and revel in this earth,
This good earth that we live on, but too short
A time, and even then, the season's short
That we enjoy the utmost in our souls.
And now, in winter, though the poets laud
The sparkling snow, the ice filled lakes and streams,
The beauty of the winter wonderland,
It is the cold bright loveliness of death.
But in the living, pulsing, happy spring,
There's refuge for the homeless and the sad.
There's endless consolation in the warmth,
The friendliness of closely pressing night,
With myriad stars, and swinging mellow moon.

GOULD DEFEATS MEXICO

Jan. 22, 1947—After getting off to a slow start the Blue and Gold Quintet found themselves in the 2nd half and easily defeated a tired and bewildered Mexico team by a score of 54-32. Libby, with seventeen points, was high scorer for the evening with Allen and Davis close behind netting twelve apiece. Wood did a fine job getting rebounds off the boards and was a tower of strength defensively.

HUSKIES BEWILDER HAPLESS NORWAY FIVE

The Gould Basketeers easily defeated a supposedly strong Norway quintet by a decisive margin of 61-28.

The outcome was never in doubt with Gould ahead by a good-sized margin all through the encounter. Allen played a superb game offensively, scoring 23 points. Libby and Davis also did a good job offensively, hitting the basket numerous times. Wood played his usual fine game as guard, ably assisted by Foster.

This game is by far the best exhibition the team has put on this year.

HUSKIES DEFEAT CARDINALS

The Blue and Gold quintet outought a stubborn Paris five, defeating them by a score of 32-23. The game was nip and tuck with Paris trailing by two or three points most of the time. The Huskies played a better brand of ball in the third quarter to give them a winning margin.

Libby and Allen were outstanding offensively while Wood controlled most of the rebounds for Gould. Both teams threw away numerous passes and the shooting was unusually poor, in comparison to past games.

HUSKIES WIN SEASON'S DEBUT

In a fast and furious game the Blue and Gold quintet won their first game of the season by the close score of Gould 48—Gorham 36.

Allen scored 18 points, followed by Davis who scored 15. Wood and Foster played a fine game in the back court, taking the ball off the backboard consistently.

Girls' Sports

Girls' Sports have been a variety of life this term, with basketball, which finished up with the Juniors winning the competition. Then there has been badminton. This year Miss Stallwood has introduced a new form: doubles, which haven't been used before. The tournaments go as follows: the partners play other partners, the winning team going on to play another team, and so on, until they are defeated. The defeated team is disqualified in the main tourney, and enters the loser's tourney, in which some team will get the title "Loser's Champs." They will naturally be the next to the winners of the main tournament. Then the fight will be played to the finish, determining the real champ, by the doubles breaking up, and the players going on to the real finals as singles. This adds zest to the proceedings and also is a truer test of the winner than last year, when the number of rounds one advanced depended upon the partners they picked by chance.

The gym classes have been livened up by apparatus, in which the rather stale acrobats have been frightening Miss Stallwood out of her wits by their antics on the rather dependable apparatus. But Miss Stallwood has been introducing new stunts, and the Gym Meet has all the promise of being something really good in the way of apparatus.

Skiing has returned to Gould, but the snow conditions have made it rather impossible to have much activity in that line, at least in the classes. The ski team, however, has been practicing and has won several meets in spite of the bad weather. This year the first class has had to be divided into two parts, A and B. The majority of last year's skiers were classified into the second class, leaving Miss Stallwood with the awkward fledgling skiers.

HUSKIES CONQUER

OLD ORCHARD QUINTET

The Blue and Gold Quintet journeyed to Old Orchard Beach and downed a hard-fighting Old Orchard aggregation by a score of 57-39.

The Huskies were ahead 16-13 at the end of the first period and led 26-20 at half time. The score stayed fairly even thru the third quarter, but in the final stanza the Huskies really went to town scoring 20 points.

Davis and Allen were the stars offensively scoring 25 and 16 points, respectively. Wood and Foster did well in the back court getting the ball off the boards.

HUSKIES LOSE HEART-BREAKER TO FRYEBURG

Poor passing and a lack of spirit and aggressiveness spelled defeat for the Blue and Gold team as they went down at the hands of a determined Fryeburg five.

GOULD DROPS THRILLER IN OVERTIME PERIOD

Jan. 14, 1947—The Blue and Gold basketeers journeyed to Gorham, New Hampshire, and lost their first game of the year by the close score of 38-34. The game was a thriller all the way with Allen knotting the score with a hair-raising one-handed shot from the center of the floor with only ten seconds left to play. In the overtime, however, Gorham outscored Gould by four points to provide the game winning margin.

Wood was high scorer for the Huskies with nine points, with Allen and Davis hot on his heels with eight apiece.

VETS LOSE TOUGH ONE

Jan. 28—The Veterans took to the road and were beaten by a strong Berlin five by the very close margin of 65-64. The game was fast and furious with Higgins shaking loose numerous times to rack up 23 points. Gould led at the half 27-21, but once again Berlin came back strong to tie the score up in the final period. Berlin then scored a foul shot which proved to be winning margin.

Moors played a fine game in the back court, assisted by Connors, who was put out of the game on fouls in the third quarter.

J. V. Basketball

The Gould Junior Varsity, with an unusually large squad this year, started off the season with a 51-37 win over Gorham at Bethel on December 18. The game started out evenly, but in the second quarter the Gould boys took an 11 point lead, increasing it throughout the game. Bennett and Smith, were high-scorers for Gould with Berwick of Gorham leading his team.

The second encounter was with a heavily out-classed Grammar School team on Jan. 10. The J. V. defense allowed only one basket, while Rolfe, Hall, and mates were caging 18 to garner a 36-11 victory.

In the return game with Gorham the boys were harder-pressed to bring home a victory. Gorham made a last period scoring threat that nearly upset the Gould appeacart. Bennett, Hall, and Hamilton led the scoring parade.

At Fryeburg, on Jan. 17, the J.V.'s suffered their first loss of the season. Although leading at the half, the Gould team slowed up in the third quarter and finally dropped a 24-23 decision. Mackenzie of Fryeburg and Smith of Gould were the high-scorers of the game.

Following their first defeat, the J.V.'s snapped back to defeat Mexico, on the home floor, 34-12. Mexico was held scoreless during the first quarter and never approached the Gould score. "Cad" Bennett was high scorer of the game with 18 points.

The J.V.'s lost their second game to Cole's Terrible Terrors in a real thriller, 33-31. Smith and Hall were high-scorers for the J.V.'s and Powers, Hawley, Cram, and G. Cole led the Terrors' attack. It was a close, hard-fought game throughout.

On January 29, the team journeyed to Mexico to again defeat the Pinto J. V.'s, this time by the closer score of 30-21. Although held without a basket during the first quarter, the Pintos came back to make it an interesting game. Bennett, Hall, and Smith led the scoring parade while Hamilton and Wright put up their usual good defensive game.

The highly-touted Norway J.V. team came to Bethel, Jan. 31, to meet a 43-27 defeat. The outcome of the encounter was never in doubt, with Gould taking an early lead. Bennett tossed in 21 points to be high scorer of the game with Hamilton and Hall of Gould and Abbott of Norway the other leading scorers.

The latest game was with the South Paris J.V.'s at Bethel, Feb. 5. The Paris team never had a chance, Gould leading 11-1 at the quarter and 20-6 at the half. The final score was 39-11. Hall and Bennett led the Gould team with 19 points between them, and no Paris player scored more than three points.

The J.V.'s have two more games left to play, one with Fryeburg and the other with Cole's Terrible Terrors. The team has worked well together all during the season and should be a strong foundation for next year's team with all but one player returning next year.

Davis and Allen did well offensively, scoring 15 and 13 points respectively. Wood did very well under the backboard, controlling numerous rebounds.

GOULD VETS EASILY DEFEAT RUMFORD QUINTET

Feb. 7—The "Kelly Green" veterans from Gould easily defeated a weak Rumford five by a score of 49 to 23. The veterans used every man they had, the second team playing a good share of the time. The game was slow starting but increased in tempo as time went by. Thurber and Higgins played a good game at forward while Connors, Moors, and Gilmour handled the ball well off the backboard. A fairly large crowd was present to see the Carnival festivities start off on the right foot.

GOULD VETS WIN CLOSE ONE 28-27

Jan. 16—Bryant's Pond went down to defeat for the second time to the "Kelly Green" veterans from Gould. The Vets were not used to the small floor, and had a tough battle to come out with a victory. The Gouldsters were ahead 16-6 at the half, but the home team came back fast in the last half to bring the crowd to their feet with a rally which fell short by one point.

Gilmour took scoring honors for Gould with eleven points, while Moors, Connors, and Thurber also did well in both offensive and defensive play.

HUSKIES WIN OVER PARIS

Jan. 10, 1947—The Gould quintet, led by Jerry Davis who pushed 17 points thru the nets, came from behind to defeat a stubborn Cardinal five by a score of 34-28. Gould was behind until the end of the third period when the Huskies knotted the count at 19 all. VETS DEFEAT BERLIN

Jan. 24—The Gould veterans, cheered on by cheer leaders in Kelly Green sweaters, won a nip and tuck battle over the Berlin G.I.'s by the close score of 36-34. Connors of Gould was high scorer with 11 points to his credit, while both Higgins and Thurber did well at their forward posts. Gould tied 19-12 at the half, but Berlin came back strong to make things tough for the Vets in the last quarter.

GOULD ACTS AS HOST TO SEVEN STATE TEAMS

Feb. 8—The once postponed State Ski Meet scheduled to be held at Gould was held Saturday after the weather man saved the day by putting a coating of snow on the ski hill.

Caribou was the only team originally scheduled to appear that was not able to be here for the meet; however, South Paris, Norway, Edward Little, Lewiston, Portland, Andover, Rumford and Gould were all well represented on the hill.

The downhill and slalom were held Saturday morning, with the jumping and cross country coming in the afternoon. One novelty of the meet was a loud speaking system installed in cooperation with the Army Recruiting Service, which gave up to the minute news of the winners and their times.

A large crowd was present at both afternoon and morning events.

GOULD SKIERS WIN OVER RUMFORD

The Gould Academy skiers captured a close dual meet with Rumford. Dick Ireland went off to a good start in the meet as he raced for first place in the cross country event and captured the downhill race, both of these events being held at Rumford. The remaining events were held at the Gould ski hill where Gould once more started out satisfactorily as Don Powers finished first in the slalom. Again Dick Ireland showed his ability as he captured the jumping events. The Rumford skiers, led by Bulger, Porath and Pidsacks, proved to be able competitors and did well in the dual meet.
